

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT FOR THE DISTRICT OF DELAWARE

ZAPFRAUD, INC.,

Plaintiff,

v.

PROOFPOINT, INC.,

Defendant.

Civil Action No. 19-cv-1691-CFC

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

ZAPFRAUD, INC.’S OPPOSITION TO DEFENDANT’S MOTION TO DISMISS

Defendant Proofpoint, Inc. (“Proofpoint”) purports to join and incorporate by reference a Motion to Dismiss for Failure to State a Claim filed in the case captioned ZapFraud, Inc. v. Mimecast North America, Inc., CA No. 19-1690 (D. Del.) (the “Mimecast Action”), D.I. 20-21. Plaintiff ZapFraud, Inc. (“ZapFraud”) hereby incorporates its opposition brief filed in the Mimecast Action.

Proofpoint’s motion provides “[f]or the convenience of the Court” a table that compares the limitations of claim 14 of the ’628 patent with “opinions cited in the Mimecast brief where similar claim language was found abstract.” (D.I. 12 at 2-5.) To the extent Proofpoint suggests that the Section 101 inquiry involves an element-by-element analysis of claim language, it commits the same error as Mimecast. (See Mimecast Action, D.I. 24 at 13-14). Patent-eligibility determinations require evaluating the claims “in their entirety to ascertain whether their character as a whole is directed to excluded subject matter.” Int’l Bus. Machines Corp. v. Groupon, Inc., 289 F. Supp. 3d 596, 601 (D. Del. 2017) (emphasis added); McRO, Inc. v. Bandai Namco Games Am. Inc., 837 F.3d 1299, 1313 (Fed. Cir. 2016) (“Whether at step one or step two of the Alice test, in determining the patentability of a method, a court must look to the claims as an ordered combination, without ignoring the requirements of the individual steps.”). Thus the element-by-element table is both unhelpful and invites legal error. The proper inquiry is whether the ’628 patent claims recite an “advance over the prior art to determine if the claim’s character as a whole is directed to excluded subject matter.” Koninklijke KPN N.V. v. Gemalto M2M GmbH, 942 F.3d 1143, 1149 (Fed. Cir. 2019) (quoting Affinity Labs of Tex., LLC v. DIRECTV, LLC, 838 F.3d 1253, 1257 (Fed. Cir. 2016)).

Further, to the extent that the Court entertains comparing individual claim elements of the ’628 patent, several recent cases have found claims reciting similar elements non-abstract and not directed to an abstract idea. See e.g., Koninklijke KPN, 942 F.3d at 1147-48, 1150 (finding claims directed to varying check data to identify errors non-abstract); Finjan, Inc. v. Blue Coat Sys., Inc., 879 F.3d 1299, 1303-05 (Fed. Cir. 2018) (finding claims that recite “receiving” information non-abstract); SRI Int’l, Inc. v. Cisco Sys., Inc., 930 F.3d 1295, 1301, 1303 (Fed. Cir. 2019) (finding a claim that recites “detecting” suspicious activity based on “analysis” of data non-abstract); Data Engine Techs. LLC v. Google LLC, 906 F.3d 999, 1006-07 (Fed. Cir. 2018) (finding claims that include “determining” and “storing” steps non-abstract); Gracenote, Inc. v. Free Stream Media Corp., No. CV 18-1608-RGA, 2019 WL 5684491, at *1, *4 (D. Del. Nov. 1, 2019) (finding claims that include “comparing,” “determining,” and “causing execution of an action” steps non-abstract).
